

Production Script: P-4.1 Delivery Mastery

C.R.A.F.T. Strategy Applied: High-Stakes Narrative Delivery

I. CONTEXT (THE HOOK) [0:00 - 0:30]

[Visual: Close-up of Michael on camera, holding the PPT Cheat Sheet]

"Welcome to the high-stakes phase of the Vault. Designing a slide is one thing; delivering it with authority is another. In this module, we are moving from 'Speaker' to 'Architect.' Look at Section 4.3 on your Blueprint: Presenter View."

II. ROLE (THE STRATEGIC DEMO) [0:30 - 1:45]

[Visual: Screen Capture - PowerPoint interface switching to Presenter View]

"Your audience sees the slide; YOU see the control room. This is Presenter View. Notice the Timer in the top left—it's your guardrail. Notice your Notes on the right—they are your script. Never look back at the screen again; the truth of your presentation is right here in front of you."

III. ACTION (THE PRO TOOLS) [1:45 - 3:00]

[Visual: Cursor highlighting the Annotation tools and Laser Pointer]

"Below your current slide, you have the Annotation Deck. Need to emphasize a data point? Grab the Pen. Want to lead their eyes? Use the Laser Pointer. This turns a static show into an interactive masterclass. Pro tip: Press 'B' on your keyboard at any time to black out the screen and bring all eyes back to YOU."

IV. FRAMEWORK (THE STUDENT TASK) [3:00 - 3:45]

"Here is your Architecture Task: Open any 5-slide deck. Start Presenter View. Use the Pen to circle a headline on Slide 2. Then, use the 'See All Slides' button to jump to Slide 5 without the audience seeing the navigation."

V. TARGET (THE SIGN-OFF) [3:45 - 4:00]

"Control the screen, control the room. Mastery isn't magic—it's mechanics. I'll see you in the next build."

MICHAEL'S PRODUCTION NOTE: When you record the 'Action' phase, actually draw on the screen so they can see the pen stroke logic. It's the highest impact moment of the video.